

ALL ALTON HONORS THE MARTYR DEAD

MAGNIFICENT MEMORIAL DEDICATED TO E. P. LOVEJOY

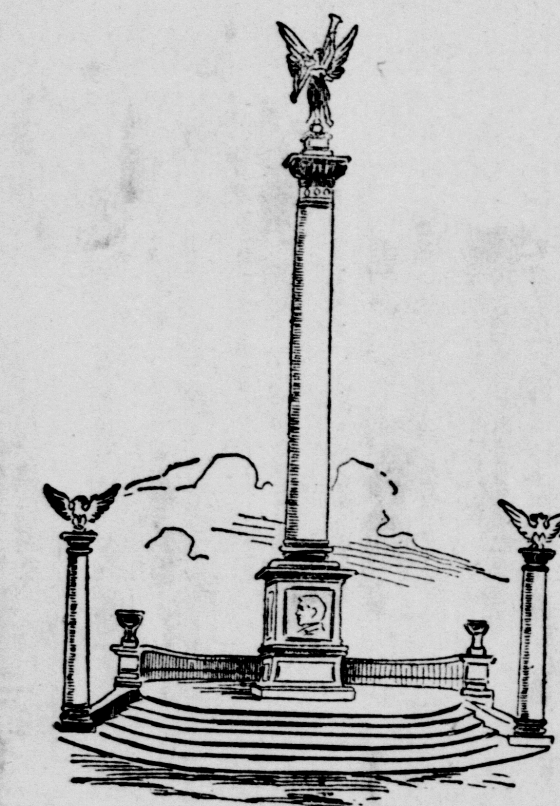

Anniversary of His Death—Sixty Years Ago the First Abolitionist Fell a Victim to the Fury of a Mob—Description of the Monument Erected By His Admirers.

Alton, Ill., Nov. 9.—The Elijah P. Lovejoy monument, recently built at Grand View cemetery, was formally dedicated Monday. The dedication was first to occur in June, but an accident to the monument while in course of construction necessitated a postponement, and it was decided by the committee in charge to dedicate the structure on the anniversary of the killing of Lovejoy. It was on Nov. 7, 1837, that a mob, angered by the abolition editorials appearing in Lovejoy's weekly paper, the Alton Observer, came across the river from Missouri and besieged the editor and his friends in Godfrey & Gilman's warehouse, where they had taken refuge. The doors and shutters were strong and the mob was unable to gain admission. The infuriated men sought to dislodge the Lovejoy party by throwing burning brands upon the roof. Lovejoy climbed from the window twice and snatched the brands, receiving a bullet wound the second time from which he died shortly after rejoining his friends.

Through the efforts of the late Senator C. A. Herb of Alton an appropriation of $25,000 was made by the state senate, but Gov. Altgeld refused to sign the bill till the citizens of Alton had raised $12,000 by popular subscription. The Lovejoy Monument association was then organized, and succeeded in raising about half that amount. The governor then allowed the appropriation to pass into the hands of the association. Plans and specifications were immediately drawn up, the work was started and was pushed to completion in a short time.

The monument cost $30,000. The architect was Louis Mulgard of St. Louis, and the sculptor Robert Bringshurst of St. Louis.

The first speaker on the programme Monday was Thomas Dimmock of St. Louis, who from the beginning has been one of the most enthusiastic of the men working for the monument. For the last twelve years they have labored with untiring energy for the accomplishment of that object. Lieut.-Gov. Dimmock is better acquainted with the story of Lovejoy than any other living man, having been a resident of Alton at the time and an intimate friend to the family.

Dr. Wilkerson, a colored divine of Upper Alton representing the colored people, made a speech entreating his audience to be patient with the negroes, that soon they would be walking side by side with their white brethren, having profited by the right of free speech and free citizenship given them.

Lieut.-Gov. Northcott delivered an address and a choir consisting of the different singing societies of the city, under the direction of Prof. W. D. Armstrong, furnished music for the occasion, accompanied by the White Hussar band. At the conclusion of the exercises the speakers and a number of the visitors were driven to the site of the monument on the bluffs that overlook the city and the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The carriage bearing Lieut.-Gov. Northcott was escorted to the cemetery by the 3d division, 3d battalion of the naval militia of Alton.

Most of the business houses were closed during the afternoon. John W. Harned of Greenville, Ill., who was an eye-witness of the death of Lovejoy, was present at the dedication exercises.

MICHIGAN WHEAT DOING WELL.

Soaking Rains Needed to Bring It Up to the Full Average.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 9.—The average condition of wheat on Nov. 1, according to the state crop report, was 82 per cent, comparison being with vitality and growth of average years. Late rains have been of great advantage, but heavy, soaking rains are needed to place the ground in condition for winter wheat.

Estimates indicate that the area seeded to wheat this fall is 6 per cent greater than was sowed last year. The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers since the October report was published is 1,962,263, and in the three months, August, September and October, 5,597,995. This is 2,198,821 bushels more than reported marketed in the same months last year.

The average yield of corn per acre is estimated at sixty-one bushels. Clover seed is a big crop, the acreage being equal to and the yield greater than any previous year.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 9.—Adjutant General H. H. Wright returned Sunday from a trip to Clinton, Iowa, and Fulton, Ill., where he went to investigate the recent charges made by citizens of Illinois against the Iowa National Guard relative to its alleged invasion of Illinois during the recent Fulton Modern Woodmen riots at Fulton. The charges were made by citizens of Rock Island, and Governor Tanner of Illinois formally demanded an investigation.

General Wright says he has the statements of a number of officials and prominent men of both Fulton and Clinton denying these charges, and he is convinced that the Iowa guardsmen as a body had nothing to do with the riot. However, he is going to Rock Island this week to investigate further.

HOLDS THAT A LAW IS CONSTITUTIONAL

IMPORTANT DECISION RENDERED BY JUDGE JACKSON.

Upholds Civil Service—Collector of Internal Revenue at Martinsburg, W. V., May Not Discharge Subordinates—Questions Involved in the Decision.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 9.—Judge Jackson of the United States court rendered his decision Monday in the injunction cases of H. C. Berwick, gauger; J. G. Ruckman, storekeeper, and William Butler, assistant storekeeper, at the Hannis distillery, against A. B. White, collector of internal revenue. The decision is favorable to the employees in every particular and perpetuates the injunctions heretofore granted.

The object of the bill of the plaintiffs was to prevent the collector from removing the plaintiffs from their present positions, and the demurrer of the defendant questioned the constitutionality of the civil-service act, the right of the employees to the protection of the act in assignments and the revocation of assignment to duty, and the power of the court of equity to interfere in such cases.

After an elaborate discussion of the matters involved the judge, in conclusion, held that the law is constitutional and the plaintiffs were employed in the internal revenue service under the protection of the civil-service act, and could not be removed except in accordance with that act and the rules made in promulgation thereof; that an attempt to change their positions was a violation of the law, and that a court of equity had the power to restrain the appointing power from removing officers in violation of the law.

The cases were submitted to Judge Jackson after a two days' argument by Senator Faulkner for the employees and ex-Commissioner of Internal Revenue Mason and District Attorney Gaines for Collector White.

CUBAN POLICY WILL HINGE ON HIS REPORT.

Is to Watch Blanco's Work—Instructions From President McKinley Are to Avoid Giving Offense, But Under All Circumstances Americans Must Be Protected.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Consul General Fitz Hugh Lee will return to Havana this week, sailing from New York Wednesday, and upon his actions and reports will depend to a very considerable extent the movements of the administration in Cuban matters. He has been instructed to keep most jealous guard of American interests on the island and to present at all times an unyielding front where the lives or property of American citizens are in jeopardy. He is instructed to use exceedingly great caution in his dealings with the Spaniards and to avoid by every means possible giving offense. He is to carry forbearance to the limit, but is under no circumstances or conditions to permit wrong to be done Americans. Acting upon the theory that Sagasta's very friendly letter to this government is an invitation to the establishment of closer relations on the island, General Lee will place himself in a position where he can take comprehensive and analytical observations of the Cuban situation in order to intelligently report the progress of the failure of reforms which the new captain general is supposed to be about to inaugurate. In this way the Washington administration will be kept advised as to the honesty and good faith of these professions of the new Spanish ministry and of its ability to carry out the reforms it has mapped out.

Secretary Ryan stated that he was positive there would be bloodshed unless Governor Tanner interfered and refused to allow the coolies to be brought into Braidwood and work in the mines about there. Mr. Ryan stated that the owner of most of the mines at Braidwood owned several in Washington, and that he worked nothing but Chinamen there. THE USE AND ABUSE OF SPECIAL SALES

N. C. FOWLER'S FOURTH TALK TO BUSINESS MEN.

Famous Advertising Expert Declares That Bargains and Regular Stock Belong Side By Side and Neither Must Overshadow the Other—How to Push Them.

(Copyright, 1897, by Nath'l C. Fowler, Jr.)

Bargains began when trade began. Bargains accompany almost all trade from clothespins to steamships. The word bargain is seen everywhere, on poster, card, signboard and in newspapers.

Bargains seem to be necessary to the conduct of successful business. The woman who did not look for the bargain sale would not be a woman.

Even the men are not indifferent to bargain announcements, and really there are bargains on the stock board and among the dealers of machinery. "It is a bargain" is heard everywhere.

There must be bargains because bargains are expected and demanded. The bargain sale is necessary to prevent waste and over stock, and is necessary as selling bait for the continuation of continuous business.

The bargain that is a bargain brings new business, and holds old business.

The bargain that isn't a bargain is a business boomerang crushing trade at its rebound.

The gentle public may tolerate regular misrepresentation, but it never will sustain the bargainless bargain store.

In the bargain is the greatest opportunity for good doing and for harm doing.

There are few stores without bargains.

The store without bargains is likely to do the slowest kind of business.

The stores of all bargains is likely to do the quickest kind of business, and to get out of business the quickest.

The store of both regulars and bargains, each working harmoniously with the other, is the store which will do the business with the people, and make most money.

Bargains are more abused than is anything else in trade.

Bargains are responsible for more exaggeration, misrepresentation, and lying than anything else in business or out of business.

The bargain seller seems to think that he must lie or he cannot sell at a bargain.

All there is now left in bargain method, which has not been worked and over worked, is clean-cut honesty.

I regular goods must be advertised. Bargains must be all the more advertised.

It is possible that regular goods may be sold without advertising, although no one has been able to do it, because folks are supposed to know where regular goods are for sale, but the real consistency of a bargain imperatively requires special and extensive publicity.

The advertising must be honest, and not only must it be honest, but it must appear to be honest.

Dishonest bargain advertising is almost as bad as dishonest bargains.

As to the best way of advertising bargains, I thought long ago everybody decided that it was the newspaper and the fact that practically every bargain sale is advertised in the newspaper and extensively, too, would seem to indicate that a good bargain advertisement in a good newspaper made good business.

STATE CALLS FOR THE CASH

Demand Is Made on the Bank of Edgerton's Bondsmen

A dispatch from Edgerton says:—"C. M. Dow, assistant state treasurer, came from Madison today and made a formal demand upon the bondsmen for the bank of Edgerton for the security given to protect state deposits."

"The bonds were given in 1892 and for a few years liberal state deposits were kept there. Of late, however, the state's deposit had been withdrawn and the only money on hand when the bank failed was $1,313, the proceeds of a city bond held by the trust funds of the state, which had been paid and not received for."

"The state treasurer had drawn a draft on the Bank of Edgerton for the amount, but the draft did not arrive until after the bank had closed its doors and so went to protest."

"The committee appointed at the depositors' meeting has been permitted to examine into the affairs of the bank by Receiver Towne and have spent several days looking over the books and papers, with a view of determining what action, if any, could be made to lie against the directors and officers. The committee has engaged counsel but has not yet decided on any legal proceedings."

WHO HAS RIGHT OF WAY?

Correspondent Suggests That Drivers Must Keep Watch for Pedestrians.

Editor Gazette:—Those who ride in buggies, on bicycles or any vehicles, should always remember that in crossing a street or highway the person on foot has the right of way. The law says so, and if you injure a pedestrian by careless riding or driving you are responsible. No one is required to run across the street to keep out of the way of bicycles or vehicles. The riders are the ones to look out for a clear track.

THE OVERFLOW OF LOCAL NEWS.

WITH THE YARDMASTER

I HAVE always found it a good idea, when going into a strange town, to take along some letters of introduction. This is a cold clammy world, and a stranger in a strange place, with nothing left except, perhaps his pedigree and a headache is what might be styled "hard lines."

A short time ago, I was overtaken by a strong desire to visit at St. Louis, Mo. I looked on the map, and found out that I had never been there. I called to mind, my old friend James S. Evans, who for many years was of the staff of the St. Louis Republic, and who is now trying to fill up a part of the editorial page of the Chicago Times-Herald. He always seemed to think well of me and admired my style of cleaning windows when I was acting yardmaster on the Chicago Journal. The fact is that he is good hearted and always ready to help a friend. That he proved to me more than once by loaning me money. Anyway, I wrote to him and asked for a letter of introduction to St. Louis. Two days later I received the following words of praise:

Chicago, Nov. 1, 1897.
J. J. Dickenson,

The Republic, St. Louis.
Contemptible Sir:—This will be presented by one Press Woodruff, born in "Arkansas" and raised in the state of intoxication.

He thinks he is runny but he isn't. I don't know exactly what takes him to St. Louis. He tells me he is going to appear before clubs down there at so much per appear. He is more likely he will appear before the police courts. He is nimble of feet and sly with tongue. I know of no cleverer porch climber in the universe. From his appearance you will plainly observe that he is hungry. Up this way we call him "Hungry Press." He has on hand two or three negro stories that he thinks are partially funny. I know they are funny, for I originated them years ago; and when I got tired of them I turned them over to him, just as I would an old ragged suit of clothes to a tramp.

Still he is worth talking to. He may try to "touch" you, but I have told him that would be a useless attempt, for I had never heard of your having a cent. If he tells you that he is an old Indian fighter, don't you believe him, as the only Indians he has ever seen were in some wild west shows. Yours with contempt,

JAMES S. EVANS.
Since receiving this letter, I have decided not to go to St. Louis.

Press Woodruff.

From the Lone Star State comes the following letter, written by W. F. Gass, editor of the Mt. Vernon, (Tex.) Herald. "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family for the past year, and find it the best remedy for colic and diarrhoea that I have ever tried. Its effects are instantaneous and I cheerfully recommended it, especially for cramp colic and diarrhoea. Indeed, we shall try and keep a bottle of it on our medicine shelf as long as we keep house. For sale by O. D. Stevens, Pharmacist, Orange, Miss and Milwaukee Sts."

Harper Bros. Literature.

In the first number of Literature, the weekly gazette of criticism, published in this country by Messrs. Harper & Brothers, and in England by the London Times, the leading article deals with "Author and Critic," a poem, "White Horses," is contributed by Rudyard Kipling; and Augustine Birrell writes a paper entitled, "Among My Books." The Reviews include many of the most conspicuous works in the various departments of letters recently published in England, on the continent of Europe and in America, among them "Tennyson's Life," by Hallam Tennyson; Mrs. Oliphant's history of "W. Blackwood and His Sons," Dr. Weir Mitchell's "Hugh Wynne," Miss Mary E. Wilkin's "Jerome, a Poor Man," and Henry James's "What Maisie Knew." Other important features of the periodical are notes on current literary events, a list of the chief new books brought out in Europe and in this country, and a carefully prepared bibliography, the subject in the first issue being "The Battle of Trafalgar."

A little child of J. R. Hays, living near Colquitt, Ga., overturned a pot of boiling water, scalding itself so severely that the skin came off its breast and limbs. The distressed parents sent to Mr. Bush, a merchant of Colquitt for a remedy, and he promptly forwarded Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The child was suffering intensely but was relieved by a single application of the Pain Balm. Another application or two made it sound and well. For sale by O. D. Stevens, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

IN MEMORY OF DOOLITTLE

Members of Racine Bar Pay Respect to the Late Ex-Senator.

Judge Fish, of Racine, adjourned the circuit court yesterday in honor of the late Judge Doolittle who was the second judge of the First Judicial district, he resigning in 1886 to take a seat in the United States senate. Immediately afterward the bar of Racine county held a meeting and adopted resolutions of respect in memory of the late jurist. Thomas M. Kearney made an eloquent address on the life and character of the ex-senator. In the course of his remarks he quoted a portion of a letter from Leonard Swett, President Lincoln's great adviser, to a Chicago gentleman, in which Mr. Swett says that President Lincoln considered Mr. Doolittle his warmest friend during the trying times the rebellion. Mr. Lincoln is quoted as saying that Mr. Doolittle was the only real friend he could rely upon. Judge Hand and Samuel Hiltch also made addresses.

IS IT CURABLE?

A Question Often Asked by Those Afflicted with Piles.

Is a strained joint curable? Is local inflammation curable? Of course, if properly treated. So is piles.

People often become afflicted with piles and ask some old "chronic" who has always persisted in the wrong treatment and naturally he discourages them by telling them that their case is hopeless.

They in turn discourage others, and thus a disease that can in every case be cured by careful and skillful handling is allowed to sap the energy of thousands who might free themselves of the trouble in a few days.

Pyramid Pile Cure will cure the most aggravated case of hemorrhoids in an astonishingly short time. It relieves the congested parts, reduces the tumors instantly no matter how large, allays the inflammation and stops the itching or itching at once.

Thousands who had resorted to expensive surgical treatment have been cured by the Pyramid Pile Cure in a number of instances persons who had spent months in a hospital under a pile specialist.

It is a remedy that none need fear to apply even to the most aggravated, swollen and inflamed hemorrhoidal tumors.

If you are afflicted with this stubborn disease you can master it and master it quickly. This remedy is no longer an experiment, but a medical certainty. It is manufactured by the Pyramid Drug Co. of Albion, Mich. Druggists sell it at 50 cents and $1.00 per box. It is becoming the most popular pile cure this country has ever known and druggists everywhere are ordering it for their customers.

INSTITUTION MORE THAN SELF SUPPORTING.

Fine Showing Is Made According to the Reports of Superintendent Allen and Dr. J. F. Pember—Annual Session of the County Board Now Being Held at the Court House.

The annual meeting of the Board of Supervisors opened at the county clerk's office this afternoon with Chairman Robert More presiding. The usual routine was gone through with, and written reports were received from the various committees.

An excellent showing is made by the county insane asylum and poor farm. During the past year the asylum has been more than self sustaining. The report of Superintendent Allen gives the figures in detail. Dr. Frank Pember's report also has to do with the asylum and both show that the institution is one that the county can be proud of. The two reports are as follows:

County Insane Hospital and Alms House:

GENTLEMEN: I herewith hand you my report for the year ending September 30, 1897.

There were eleven deaths among the insane and fourteen among the dependent, making two more than in the previous year. While the death rate is a little higher, the acute general sickness has been a little less than in the year preceding, many of the deaths occurring in those far advanced in years, as will be told by the following tables:

No serious accident demanding surgical attention has occurred. Rock county can justly be proud of her Insane Hospital and Alms House, and the efficient way in which the same is managed. I am unable to even suggest an improvement. The sanitary conditions remain all that could be asked, and no contagious or infectious disease has developed in either institution. I desire to thank the superintendent, matron and all who have so cheerfully helped me in my work. Signed, J. F. PEMBER, M. D.

PUT UP NEW JAIL ON PRESENT SITE

THIS PLAN LIKELY TO BE FOLLOWED.

Five Different Plans Are Under Consideration—Building Committee Are Against Court House Park Location—Repairing Old Building Held to Be Useless.

Some conclusion as to the building of a new jail will be reached, in all probability, at this session of the county board.

The matter will be brought up tomorrow by Chairman T. B. Bailey, of the building committee. During the past few weeks, the building committee has been considering the matter, and five different plans have been looked upon with favor as presentable to the board.

The plans received are for jails varying in cost from $21,000 to $30,000. Architects at Kenton, Ohio, Milwaukee, St. Louis, and Cleveland have submitted drawings.

For the remodeling of the present jail plans have been received from a Milwaukee firm who will take the contract for $12,000.

Many members of the board who have been interviewed on the subject favor a new jail. To lay one out on the present structure, they claim, would mean the wasting of just that much money.

The question of a site will also receive special attention by the board. There is no danger of putting the building in the court house park, it is said. All the members of the building committee are against any such move. They favor the use of the present vacant lot at the south west corner of Park and South First streets which is now a part of the present jail yard.

THE DRY EXTRACT CO. TO MOVE TO ELGIN

JANESVILLE LOSES ANOTHER GOOD FACTORY.

Manufacturers of "Milkine" Will "Pull Up Stakes" Next Week—New Concern Organized With $50,000 Capital Stock—Preparation Said to Have a Great Future.

Janesville has lost another factory, and one that had, probably, the best prospects for the future of any in town.

The Dry Extract Co. manufacturers and patentees of "Milkine" will go to Elgin.

The Chicago Daily News of a recent date announced that the Elgin Milkine company had applied at the office of the secretary of state for articles of incorporation with a capital stock of $50,000. The principal stockholders of the Elgin company, which own all the right patents, etc., and into which the present concern is merged are: Mayor William Brode, E. T. Waldron, A. B. Church, W. W. Sherwin and L. B. Hamlin, all prominent and wealthy citizens of Elgin and W. J. Meadows and R. F. Hetherington of this city. Mr. Sherwin is president, Mr. Brode is vice president and Mr. Hetherington is secretary. The directors are Messrs. Brode, Sherwin, Hamlin, Meadows and Hetherington.

The work of removal, it is said, will be begun next week.

The new firm are said to have ample capital and will push the manufacture of Milkine to the limit.

Elgin Men Are Wise

The reorganization of the firm and the removal to Elgin was only decided upon after the firm had labored with the moneyed men of Janesville for the past three years in hopes of interesting them in the business. When the Elgin men submitted their proposition the Dry Extract company accepted as the offer was a very liberal one.

The removal of this factory from Janesville, means a loss to the town, as the future of the preparation is bright with promise. That was the reason why Elgin business men were quick to realize and accept a good thing. They did not go at it with their eyes shut. Patent attorneys were sent to Washington to look up the patents, etc., and reported that the company's claims were valid and unquestioned.

Chemists analyzed the preparation, and reported it of unusual excellence. The chemical action involved in the process of manufacture was found to be radically different from any similar preparation on the market. On these facts the Elgin men based their action.

Is a Fine Food
R. F. Hetherington and W. J. Meadows who owned the controlling stock of the old company came to Janesville five years ago from Burlington, Wis., and began the manufacture of Milkine. It is a food for infants and invalids—and all other people as well. It differs radically from any other preparation, in that meat is used. It has been very popular with physicians and at hospitals. Local physicians and druggists, not to mention people who have used it, speak of it in the highest terms. As time rolls on, the demand for these foods will increase instead of decrease, and there is no better preparation on the market. The prediction is freely made by those who know, that proper advertising will make Milkine the most popular food on the market.

No Interest Here
The firm has been handicapped for capital with which to advertise and some time ago made a proposition to the people of this city, to issue bonds. The plan fell flat. Since then an effort has been made to interest local business men. This too failed, but Elgin men were quick to recognize

THE HILLS.

The giant hills repose, a mighty host.
Blind servants of fate, for good or ill.
Unthinking, helpless, favored slaves at most,
Impassive workers of the Master's will.

Though free from labor of the hand or heart,
From man's dissension, greed and grief or joy,
Yet toiling subjects, with allotted part,
Like silent vehicle or childhood's toy.

All liberty is bondage of degree.
Apparent happiness may nourish pain.
Our freedom oft is but the turning key
In door that sorrow bids us close again.

The quiet mountains feed the springs of life,
That well or dry at heavenly command,
And flood or famine, loss or gain, is life.
The hills contribute with subjective hand.

There lies in barren peak the timbered height,
A wealth beyond the optimistic dream,
But mortals grope until the way is light,
Till fortune smiles and earth reflects the beam.

Success and failure have unknown array.
The sun may scorch and clouds the rainbow show.
All hills are actors in a fateful play.
The mute, majestic serfs of woe or woe.
—Jean More in Atlanta Constitution.

AN UNKNOWN GRAVE.

Four men were seated upon a trader's veranda at Maduro, one of the Marshall islands. The night was brilliantly moonlit, and the hull and spars of a little white brig that lay anchored in the lagoon about a mile distant from the trader's house stood out as clearly and distinct as if she were but 50 yards away from where they sat.

Three of the men present were visitors—Ned Packenham, the captain; Harvey, the mate, and Denison, the supercargo of the Indiana. The fourth was the trader himself, a grizzled old wanderer of past 60.

It was long past midnight, and the old trader's numerous half caste family had turned in to sleep some hours before. It so happened that the old man had just been talking about a stalwart son of his who had died a few months previously, and Packenham and Denison, to whom the lad had been well known, asked his father where the boy had been buried.

"In there," replied the old man, pointing to a small white walled inclosure about a stone's throw from where we were sitting. "There's a good many graves there now. Let me see.

There is Dawney, the skipper of the Maid of Samoa, and three of his crew; Peterson, the Dutchman—him that got a bullet into him for fooling around too much with a pistol in his hand and challenging natives to fight when he was drunk; two or three of my wife's relatives, who wanted to be buried in my boneyard because they thought to make me some return for keeping their families after they were dead; my boy Tom and the white woman."

"White woman?" said the mate of the brig. "Did a white woman die here?"

"I'll tell you all I do know, and a queer yarn it is too. In those days I was the only white man here. I got on very well with the natives and was doing a big business. There were not many whalers here then, but every ten months or so a vessel came here from Sydney, and I was making money hand over fist.

"The house in which I then lived stood farther away toward the point, in rather a clearer spot than this. You can see the place from here and also see that a house standing in such a position would be visible not only from all parts of the inside beaches of the lagoon, but from the sea as well.

"My wife—not the present one, you know—was a Bonin island half bred Portuguese woman, and as she generally talked to me in English and had no native ways to speak of we used to sit outside in the evenings pretty often and watch our kids and the village people dancing and otherwise amusing themselves on the beach.

"Rotan, the head chief of this lagoon, one night told us that a canoe had come from Milli, an island about three days' sail to the leeward of Waller's place, and reported that a ship had passed quite close to their island about a week before.

"After we had sat talking for awhile my wife called the children in and put them to sleep, and Rotan and I and his wives sat outside a bit longer smoking. It was a moonlight night, almost as bright as it is tonight, and the sea was as smooth as a mill pond—so smooth, in fact, that there was not even a break upon the reef, and the trade wind having died away, there was not the sound of a leaf stirring in the palm grove.

"We had been sitting like this for about half an hour, when Nora, my wife, just as she was coming out of the door to join us, gave a cry.

"Te Kaibuke! Look at the ship."

"I jumped up and looked, and there, sure enough, was a big ship just showing round the point and close in, not more than a mile away from the reef.

"For a moment I was a bit scared, remembering that there was not a breath of wind and yet seeing her moving. Then I remembered the current and knew that she must have run up to the land from the westward before dark perhaps, and that as soon as the breeze had died away the current, which runs about four knots, had caught her and was now moving her along. I took her to be either a Yankee or British North American.

"Just as I had asked Rotan to get one of his women to hunt up a boat's crew he sang out: 'Listen, Ted. I hear a boat.'

"In another moment or two I heard it myself plain enough—click clack, click clack—and at the same time saw that the ship was heading away from the land.

"I knew the ship was right enough and could not get into any danger, as the current would take her clear of the land in another hour or so, so we all went to the point to see where the boat was coming.

"As soon as she was within 100 yards of the beach I hailed them to keep a bit to starboard, as there was a big coral bowlder right in front of the spot they were steering for.

"Aye, aye!" answered the man steering, and he did as I told him. In another minute or two the boat shot up on the beach, and we crowded round them.

"Stand back, please," says the officer, speaking in a curious, hurried kind of way, and then I saw that he had a pistol in his left hand, and that the men with him looked white and scared, and seemed to take no notice of us.

"Two of the men jumped out, and then we saw that there was another person in the boat—a woman. She was sitting on the bottom boards, lying against the stern sheets, and seemed to be either asleep or dead. The officer helping them, they lifted her up and out of the boat and carried her ashore. Then the officer turns to me, and I saw that though he tried to speak quietly he was in a hurry over something.

"What's all this? I said. 'What's the matter? What have you got this pistol in your hand for, and what is the matter with this woman?'"

"He put the pistol out of sight pretty quick, and then, speaking so rapidly I could hardly follow him, said that the lady was the captain's wife, and she had been taken ill very suddenly, and her husband, seeing my house so close to, had determined to send her ashore and see if anything could be done for her.

"That's—queer," I said. "Why didn't he come with her himself? Look here—I don't believe all this. How did he know, even though the house is here, that a white man lives in it? And I want to have a look at the woman's face. She might be dead for all I know."

"By this time my wife and one of Rotan's wives had gone up to the woman, and I saw that, although she wasn't dead, she looked very like it, for her eyes were closed, and she seemed quite unconscious of all that was going on. She was young—about 25 or so—and was rather pretty.

"Please take her to your house," says the officer, and as soon as we have towed the ship out of danger the captain will come ashore and see you."

"Hold on!" says I, and I grabbed him by the arm. "Do you mean to say you're going off in this fashion without telling me anything further? Who are you anyway? What is the ship's name?"

"He hesitated just a second and then said: 'The Inca Prince, Captain Broughton. But I can't stay to talk now. The captain himself will tell you about it in the morning.'

"And then, before I could stop him, he jumped back out of my reach into the boat, and the four sailors, two of whom were niggers of some sort, shoved off, and away they went again.

"Well, we carried the woman up to the house and placed her in a chair, and the moment my wife took off the woolen wrapper that covered her head and shoulders she cried out that there was blood running down her neck. And it didn't take me long to discover that the woman was dying from a bullet wound in the back of her head.

"We did all that we possibly could for the poor thing, but she never regained consciousness, and toward sunrise she died quietly. There was nothing about her clothing to show who she was, but she wore rings such as would belong to a woman of some position. That she had been murdered I could not doubt, and perhaps some day, even after all these years, the crime may come to light."

"But what became of the ship?" asked the mate of the Indiana.

"Out of sight by 8 o'clock in the morning. As soon as I saw what was the matter with the woman I knew that we need not expect to see any one from the ship back again."

"I wonder what the true story of that woman's death was?" said Packenham thoughtfully as he looked toward the place where she was buried.

"Heaven only knows," answered the old trader. "Whether it was a mutiny and her husband was murdered, or whether the officer who came ashore with her was the captain himself and her husband as well I cannot tell. Anyway, I have since learned that there never was a ship named the Inca Prince.

"I've told the story to every shipmaster I've met since that night, and it was written about a good deal in the English and American newspapers. Then the affair was forgotten, and, like many another such thing, the secret may never come out."—London Chronicle.

The Bird on Your Hat.

The craze for birds on women's hats is decidedly on the increase. The feathered kingdom is ransacked for tributes to headgear. They are of all kinds and sizes, from the owl to the humming bird. The only ones remaining that have not been utilized in this way are the bird of freedom, America's symbol, the eagle, and birds of prey, the vulture, the carrion crow, etc., and doubtless these will soon be the mode in the mad quest for novelty by brainless women and for money by greedy milliners. It would be such a decided sensation to perch a big crow or vulture on the head as a hat, skewered on with dagger pins.

Can nothing be done to abate this shame on our civilization, this blot on the character of women? Is there no one who can wield the stinging lash of the satirist against this savage fashion? Is there none who can use the silver tongued pleading of the orator for mercy to God's winged creatures? Must the fashion go on till it dies for want of material? When the kingdom of birds is wholly exterminated or specimens so rare they are worth their weight in gold will there only then be success? The late illustrations show owls' heads as the latest garniture. They surmount the hat. They trim the coat. They are perched on the muff. The owl has been known from early times as the bird of wisdom, and now it is chosen to adorn the head of the fool. Verily the satire of the conjunction shines out of the solemn visages glaring about the costume. —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Ideal Woman's Club.

Here is the higher mission of the woman's club—to give women the occasional chance to rest, both in mind and body. For such a club as this, developed along the lines of ease, of relaxation, of pure vacuity if one wished, with exemption and not responsibility as its first privilege, above all with abundant inclination in the souls of its members toward nothing but that profitable idleness which, as Mr. Stevenson says, consists not so much in doing nothing as in doing a great deal that is not usually recognized as work—for such a club I would be almost willing to become a propagandist! For here no insidious desire for work would be allowed to masquerade under the guise of recreation, and no amount of recreation would serve to carry any ulterior purpose of self improvement. There would be luncheon for luncheon's sake, and women would sit down to eat it, greedy and unashamed. And you may be sure there would be no papers read and no members fined because they were not there to listen to them. Thus a normal and natural intercourse would be promoted in which the self improvement, though incidental and half unconscious, would be real and permanent, because developed upon the plane on which one customarily dwells. —"The Unquiet Sex," by Helen Watterson Moody, in Scribner's.

Mrs. A. E. Paul of Chicago.

The Woman's Journal says: Mayor Harrison of Chicago has entrusted the promised revolution in down town street cleaning to the management of a woman. To Mrs. A. E. Paul has been given the task of redeeming Chicago's main thoroughfares. When Mrs. Paul marshaled a troop of 25 men in military order, with brooms perched upon their shoulders, down Washington street, the work of keeping down town streets and crossings free from refuse was begun. Henceforth business men and citizens will see discipline in the street cleaning force. Mayor Harrison is determined to have clean streets and sanitary conditions in the alleys. Unless all signs fail, Mrs. Paul will be Chicago's Colonel Waring. She will have complete charge of all the street cleaning and garbage forces in the business district.

The Atlanta Journal says: She is the only woman in the world at the head of a street cleaning force, and if she succeeds in her ambition to make Chicago a clean city she will deserve a monument. A woman who does a work like that is greater than she who shines at a German or wins first prize at a bicycle tourney.

Women and the Homestead Laws.

The officials at the head of the national public land bureau do not advise women to take up government land with the idea of living and establishing homes thereon, both of which conditions are imposed by the homestead act. The public lands are parceled out at from $1.25 to $2.50 per acre in tracts of from 40 to 160 acres. The good, well located farm land has, however, all been taken up, and of the millions of acres remaining to be disposed of but a small portion can be made productive except through the aid of expensive irrigation. —Ladies' Home Journal.

The Cigarette Habit.

A Philadelphia tobaccoist says: "One-fifth of our cigarette sales during the last two months have been to women. If you were to stand at my door for an hour or two, you'd be surprised to see the swell girls who come in to make purchases. There is a certain brand which they all seem to have an especial liking for. It is evident that in this respect they are acting in concert. There is a certain club of up town girls, a smokers' club, which, to my personal knowledge, recently passed resolutions adopting this particular brand as the official cigarette of the club."

Passing of the Tea Table.

The old fashioned tea table is becoming a thing of the past, and an invitation to tea means nowadays, unless especially defined, the informal 5 o'clock tea, which is hardly considered in the light of an entertainment, being merely an excuse for receiving one's friends at a stated hour. Some of the old families who make a point of keeping up their traditions have retained for Sunday evening the American "tea"—a meal that is to most people rather a welcome change from the conventional and formal dinner. —New York Tribune.

It is very seldom that one sees in these up to date days the old regulation tea table, with its dishes of cold tongue and cold chicken thinly sliced; snowy biscuits, light as a feather; golden butter, homemade preserves that are the pride of the house mistress and delicious cake made by her own fair hands. All these dainties and more of the same kind, tastefully arranged amid flowers and fruit and silver candelabra on the polished mahogany which reflected in its mysterious depths the candles and their myriad radiations, with the mild sheen of the highly polished silver—nothing could be prettier or more restful than the tea tables of yore. This dainty, old fashioned meal was as different as possible from what is called in England "high tea," which is really a rather "higglety pigglety" dinner, with hot, smoking dishes of meat and vegetables, all served at once, and which, although under certain conditions may be convenient, can never be elegant, the latter quality being a distinctive mark of a typical American tea.

"I should love to keep up Sunday evening teas," says many a housekeeper, "but my husband insists upon having his dinner. He says it upsets his digestion to be fed upon biscuits and preserves and cold meat, whereas, if the truth were told, such abstemiousness practiced every day would save him from many an ill that his overfed body is heir to."

WOMEN! DON'T WAIT.

If You Have Any of These Symptoms Act at Once.

Do you know the reason why you will go to the hospital, my poor friend? Because you have allowed yourself to go from bad to worse. You did not know that that heat, swelling and tenderness in your left side were all signs of congestion of the ovary.

Any intelligent woman could have told you that congestion is fatal to the uterine system, and that an ovary congested leads to tumor formation, and that you were in awful danger. Now you will have to undergo the operation of ovariectomy, the cutting out of the ovary.

Yes, you will recover, at least I hope you will; but you will never be quite the same woman again. Congestion of the ovaries is fatal to health. If you have any such symptoms be advised in time; take a medicine of specific powers! You can find none better than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared especially to meet the needs of woman's sexual system. You can get it at any good druggist's.

Following we publish a letter from a woman in Milwaukee, which relates how she was cured of ovarian trouble: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered with congestion of the ovaries and inflammation of the womb. I had been troubled with suppressed and painful menstruation from a girl. The doctors told me the ovaries would have to be removed. I took treatment two years to escape an operation, but still remained in miserable health in both body and mind, expecting to part with my reason each coming month. After using one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash I was very much relieved. I continued to use your remedies until cured. The last nine months have been passed in perfect good health. This, I know, I owe entirely to the Vegetable Compound. My gratitude is great, indeed, to the one to whom so many women owe their health and happiness."—Mrs. F. M. KNAPP, 563 Wentworth Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

The Prosperity Of Our Store Is Remarkable.

The business lines we follow make the increase of sales a surety. It's natural they should; they are sound, common sense, and appeal in every way to Shoe buyers. It is no small matter—this getting and retaining public confidence, and this, the one most necessary point in any merchant's business—confidence in your word; confidence in your goods; confidence in your prices. All of these any successful business house has and all of these we have.

We take good care of our trade and never disappoint them in any manner. We are selling all classes of Shoes at a lower price, on a closer margin, than we ever have before in the history of our business. Of course we make a profit but we are obliged to sell double the amount each year to make up the same profit of former years. We are doing even more than this. We find the plan increases trade to very large proportions. Every line in the house has been squeezed to the lowest price nytce. If you knew the exceeding small margin we make on many of them you would wonder at our rashness. But that's our business Suffice it to say we are the lowest priced Shoe dealers in the city. This you can thoroughly believe.

It's a Pleasure

For us to show you through the Cloak stock, and it must be a source of satisfaction to you to know that there is such a strong line at your doors as we carry. People from out of town give us credit for showing much the best line in this section; and we doubt if Wisconsin can produce another cloak department with so great a display as ours. By great we do not mean floor space, but rather the number of new garments and the great variety of the styles. Controlling so many sample lines enables us at all times to show a large number of novelties so entirely at variance with ordinary lines that comparisons are out of the question. As regards price, it is so well known that we save you a third on every coat that the mention of it seems almost unnecessary.

That new line of plush and velour Capes offers some exceptional bargains. Russian Blouses are much in evidence, and they are a dressy garment—that is, the kind we handle are. Two new shipments added to the misses' line makes the display of young ladies' coats about as complete as it could be; these are also samples and priced accordingly—$2½ and up.

Eiderdown Dressing Sacques

Silk tubular braids—black and all colors, 6c per yare. Silk and mohair soutaches; cotton, mohair and silk hercules; narrow gimps, braid or jet.

The Man With the Gladdest Smile!

IS THE MAN WHO BOUGHT A "GARLAND."

His smile commences when he buys the Garland; it broadens as the winter comes on and he finds he gets more heat with less coal than ever before; and his face breaks into a grin from ear to ear when winter is over and he comes to a full realization of Garland values.

Happiest people are always the ones who use the

GARLAND.

That Garlands are the stoves most universally used throughout the land is evidenced by the enormous sales each year.

WE • ARE • ON • THE • WAR • PATH!

We want your stove trade; must have it; in fact, are entitled to it. Whether it be for a second-hand or a new stove makes no difference to us. We have been successful in selling ninety-nine out of every hundred stove customers this season so far; no reason why we can't sell you. No lower prices named anywhere than ours; no greater stove sellers in this part of the state than us. Most everybody is familiar with the line of stoves we carry, but for fear you may not know of them all, we will name them over: Garlands, from $7 to $70, 1000 styles and sizes, the largest makers of stoves in the world; Jewels, over two millions in use; Jewetts, three and one-half millions in use; Red Cross; Round Oak; Riverside Oak.

We would like to know if every woman would like to know how to save half the work in washing. If they will come to our store and examine the new BALL BEARING Bicycle Wringers and the WESTERN WASHER we can easily explain why these machines lessen work. You can always believe our every day talks. Lowell always does as he advertises.
